Preliminary plans looking toward purchase of the Shrine mosque and Fox theater properties by the city through proceeds from the properties themselves were approved Monday afternoon by council by a two-to-one vote and the public buildings committee and City Attorney Jack C. Savage were instructed to prepare a contract for action at council's next session.

Under the program, the most unusual one ever submitted to the municipality, the city will take over the handsome properties, which cost $2,800,000 to construct, and will pay only proceeds of the property on the purchase.

The city does not agree to pay a single cent of current revenues nor does it pledge the moral obligation of the municipality to pay any money for the project. In fact, only proceeds of the properties will be diverted toward liquidation of the $725,000 purchase figure, and that only after operation and maintenance have been deducted from the proceeds.

White Urges Approval.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of the public buildings committee, told members Monday afternoon "the city can't lose on any such proposition."

"I never heard of a comparable offer," White said. "I can not see how any member of this body can conscientiously vote against it. We have proceeded slowly and legally in this matter. Atlanta is not asked to put up a single dime to get this magnificent structure."

Vote on passage of the resolution directing the committee, along with Savage and attorneys representing bondholders and those who have agreed to underwrite the $100,000 cash payment, to draw up the contract was 22 for and 11 against.

Those voting for passage were: Mitchell, Carpenter, Aldridge, Reynolds, Hailey, Murphy, Barrett, Loch, Cuba, McCutcheon, Bridges, White, Knight, Rogers, Milam, Beck, Drennon, Haire, Lyle, Johnson, Sutton, Wilson. Total 22.

Voting against passage were: Scott, Tiller, Bowden, Hall, Cobb, Childs, Marler, Decker, Bolen, Rantin, Richards. Total 11.

Walker and Stubbs Named by Judge — Estimates Put Loss to Investors as High as $5,000,000—Criminal Indictments Seen.

By RALPH T. JONES.

Receivers took over the offices and records of the American Bond & Share Corporation in the William-Oliver building Monday afternoon as estimates ranging as high as $5,000,000 were made on the total loss suffered by investors in the company.

Former Governor Clifford Walker and T. M. Stubbs were named temporary receivers by Judge John D. Humphries at an ex parte hearing in Fulton superior court. The petitioner was Galen Kilburn, Atlanta investor in the corporation. Monday company did not appear at the hearing.

At the same time the federal grand jury heard witnesses as investigation which is expected to lead to criminal indictments against various officers of the corporation and its affiliate companies was launched.

Lawrence Camp, district attorney, said the number of witnesses to be heard probably would make the grand jury sessions last all week.

Hundreds of Atlantans and Georgians are heavy investors in the corporation. It became evident Monday as customers of the company visited the offices of the district attorney, appeared before the grand jury and in the William-Oliver building.

Atlanta's suit for $5,600 against J. Ben Daniel, former city marshal, for shortages which occurred during his incumbency, will go to trial, it was decided unanimously Monday afternoon at a meeting of the finance committee of city council.

The committee, headed by Councilman Aubrey Milam, voted to rescind its action of last Tuesday, when it absolved Daniel of all blame in connection with the shortages, and instructed City Attorney Jack C. Savage to proceed with trial of the case.

Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby, widow of a former deputy marshal, who, Daniel told the finance committee, was in charge of the fi. fa. cash collection box, from which $1,190 was missing according to an audit of Ham Edson & Company, appeared before the committee to defend her husband.

"I would not be true to him, to myself or our children if I failed to defend his good name," Mrs. Quinby told the committee. She said that at least $300 in cash was given Daniel, and that Quinby told her that $2,000 more in fi. fa. were destroyed by Daniel. She also charged that $225 was given Daniel while Quinby was ill at home for about two months.

Auditor Presents Receipts.

Mr. Edson appeared before the committee with his audit and he also produced receipts which Quinby had turned over to Mayor Key. Some of these purported to have been signed by Daniel for cash withdrawn from the fi. fa. fund.

Other records of fi. fa. discrepancies reported to amount to about $900 were produced during the hearing. The records came into the marshal's office after Edson completed his audit.

The pending suit asks for restitution of $1,190 in cash and $4,410 for shortages in the advertising funds. The Metropolitan Casualty & Surety Company, of New York, Daniel's bondsman, is a joint defendant in the suit.

City Attorney Jack C. Savage told the committee that he did not know of his own knowledge that an offer of settlement for $1,500 had been made by the bonding company to the late City Attorney James L. Mayson. He said Daniel denied that any offer had ever been made.

No Settlement Offer.

The only statement Daniel made to the committee Monday afternoon was that he had no offer of settlement to make, and "if given the opportunity will show that the matters mentioned are on city records."

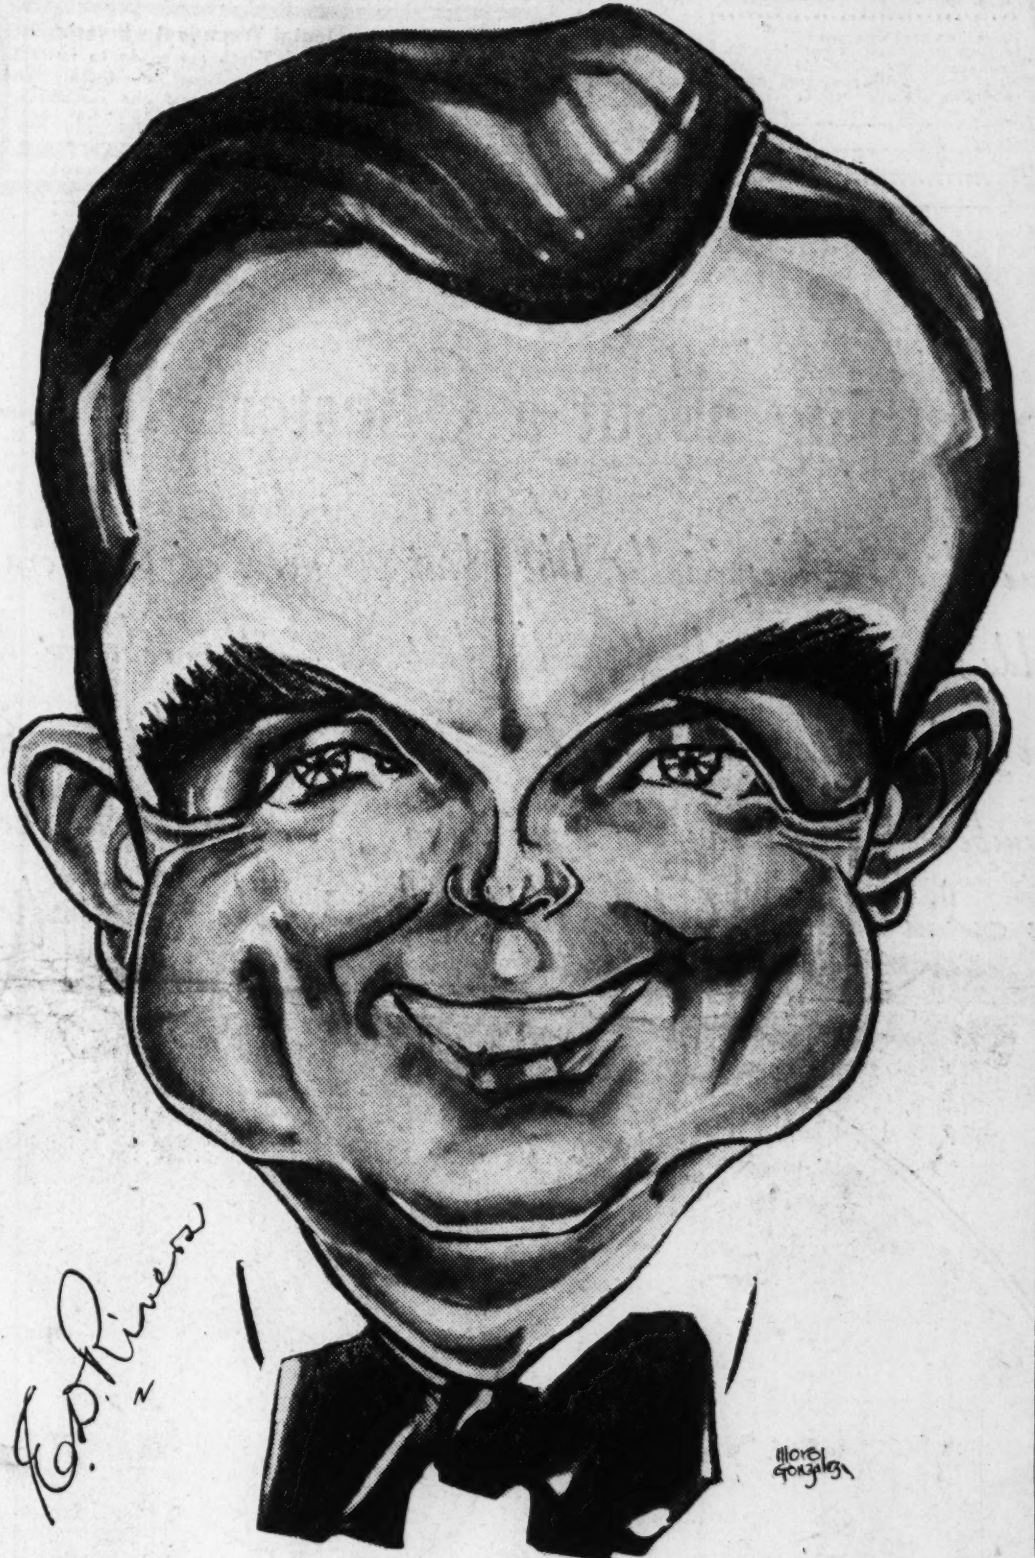

Mrs. Quinby asserted she was before the committee to "clear the name of my husband."

She told the committee that Daniel had not been charged with dishonesty, but that he was reported to have been custodian of the money collected as partial payments on fi. fa. cases.

"There was something said about collecting from his (Quinby's) bondsman," Mrs. Quinby countered. "I want my husband's name cleared."

There was something said about the committee was unanimous, and Savage was told to proceed with the trial of the suit.

BUS BILL TABLED

Harvey, Smith Indicted
By U. S. Grand Jury

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 18.—(UP)—The cotton market slumped another $2.80 a bale today to where it was almost 2 cents a pound below the price the government is lending the farmer on his crop.

The loss for eight days totals $8.35 a bale. In a broad sense, this means the value of the 14,363,000 bales of American cotton now on hand has declined $117,548,500.

The government faces tremendous losses unless the market recovers. It owns 5,000,000 bales outright, and must continue, until July 1, to advance farmers about 12.40 cents a pound for cotton that was quoted at 10.55 on the New Orleans exchange tonight. The loans are 12 cents, plus carrying charges, which average about 4 of a cent.

Confident of Rise.

The agricultural department, however, is confident the market will rise, and has ordered Oscar Johnston, manager of its pool, to sell no more government cotton until the price reaches 12 cents.

A brighter view, taken by some observers, was that the falling market would stimulate foreign exports and remove some of the domestic surplus. Exports have dropped to 3,403,266 bales this season, compared with 5,730,452 a year ago, a loss of 41 per cent with the market decline. American cotton is now worth only 6 cents a pound to foreigners who pay for it in gold, due to the lowering of the gold content of the dollar to 59 cents of its former value.

BERLIN, March 18.—With German arms plants working virtually "on a war footing" according to the government's own admission, Reichsfuehrer Hitler replied to a British protest on rearmament today that he still is willing to talk peace with Sir John Simon.

Immediately after answering London's flat charge that Hitler's rearmament is "calculated seriously to increase the uneasiness of Europe," Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels told the world:

"Germany already possesses a powerful, well-equipped army with excellent artillery and huge reserves of trained men."

He said material was being supplied from German arms factories "in an ever-increasing volume."

The propaganda minister in a press communique said Germany was "amazed at the astonishment manifested abroad at the re-creation of a German army."

"One would have believed," he said, "that the news would have been received with visible relief and satisfaction, now that the world knows where we stand. Not that it was not aware before, but it has the certainty now."

Goebbels cited Stanley Baldwin, of England, Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin, of France, and other authorities as dwelling on the unknown terror among European peoples emanating from ignorance as to what Germany was doing in the way of rearming.

"Now that the world is told," said Goebbels, "it professes to be astonished and indignant. Would it not have been more courageous, consistent and logical if it faced the new situation?"

He pointed out that the German people have no suspected desire for a proclamation with a war-like exaltation or cries of revenge, but with calm faith in their own strength.

Law Already in Effect.

Meanwhile, there were plentiful indications that the new conscription law is already in effect in Germany and that the proud storm troops are on the way out.

Orders were issued today to S. A. supply stores and tailor shops to cease making brown-shirt equipment and clothes. The propaganda minister said he served upon hundreds of storm troops' homes or headquarters that leases must be canceled at the earliest possible moment, and in many S. A. units word was passed out that members need no longer report for regular duty.

At the same time General von Frisch, chief of staff of the reichswehr, started an inspection tour of Rudolf Hess, as Hitler's deputy, ap Germany "to view headquarters, barracks and training facilities." Also he heard at Kiel that a wreath on the marine memorial at Labos, and to visit one of the school ships.

Thus Germany embarked upon reorganization of her army and military equipment for several fronts. Authoritative sources said the conscription of soldiers would begin at once. The new army will be modeled on the old imperial army machine.

Disgruntled Minister
Quits Greek Cabinet

ATHENS, March 18.—(AP)—John Metaxas resigned from the Greek cabinet tonight as a result of a disagreement with Premier Panagiotis Tsaldaris, leading to the belief important government changes are in prospect.

Metaxas, an ardent royalist, was minister without portfolio and assumed the war ministry during the recent revolt when General George Kondylis took the field.

The chairman of the cabinet saying the leniency of Premier Tsaldaris made his presence in the cabinet "unnecessary."

It was assumed he had reference to the trial of rebel officers under courtmartial, now in progress.

Indictments charging Aubrey Smith and Leland Harvey with jeopardizing life in the robbery of a federal reserve bank were returned by the federal grand jury here Monday.

Smith and Harvey, who were pardoned a year ago by Governor Talmdge, were indicted in connection with a $9,781 pay roll robbery from the national city bank of Rome on August 24, 1934.

J. A. Palmer, cashier of the bank, and B. Ford, a teller, were delivering the pay roll to the Chatham Mills near Rome when two bandits forced them to stop their car at the side of the road and relieved them of the money.

Smith and Harvey were arrested six weeks ago in Virginia and brought back to Atlanta. At a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner S. E. Griffith the bank cashier identified the pair as the men who robbed him. Ford was positive in his identification of Smith.

The men under indictment are being held at Fulton tower, but will be taken to Rome for trial in the federal district court there.

Make HAPPINESS a Habit

Wouldn't you like to step up the amount of enjoyment you get from life? The knack of keeping fit is largely a matter of regular habits. Your happiness may be hampered by common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in your meals.

Did you know that your grocer has a natural cereal food which corrects this condition? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, eaten regularly, supplies generous "bulk." Also vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle and safe for normal individuals. More effective than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this natural food much better than taking patent medicines? Serve it as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. It contains much more "bulk" than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

by Canon and Mrs. Turner at their home at 242 Rumson road. The former first lady, wife of the late President Calvin Coolidge, stopped at the Baltimore hotel with her friend, Mrs. Adams. She declined to receive newspapermen. Mrs. Coolidge maintains the reticence toward public utterance that characterized her late husband. But she is no stranger to Atlanta, having visited here previously when Mr. Coolidge was vice president and came here to attend a meeting of the Southern Tariff Association. At that time she was entertained by Governor and Mrs. Hugh M. Dorsey at the old governor's mansion when it was situated on the Henry Grady hotel site, and also at a civic dinner at the Druid Hills Golf Club.

Howell Met President.
Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, was appointed to meet Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge at the depot and took the president to lunch at a club here.

Mr. Howell asked the visitor what he would like to do after luncheon? He expressed a desire to see the battlefields around Atlanta. He was conducted by Mr. Howell on a tour of these Civil War scenes. President Coolidge repaired afterward to Pine Hill, Mr. Howell's Wesley road residence, where he met the late Judge W. T. Newman, and other Atlantans who participated in the Battle of Peachtree creek, the Battle of Atlanta, and other engagements around the city.

From the porch of the home which overlooks the field of battle of Peachtree Creek, the vice president discussed the battles and knew more about the movements of both armies than did the men who fought in the engagement.

$185,000 Gem Loot Recovered at Miami

lancoaga to Atlanta; and the division of his army at Marietta into three corps of approximately 50,000 each. One corps, under General Thomas to approach Atlanta along the Howell Mill road. The second was to come around Atlanta to the west, and the third was to come around the city to the east, the latter two being respectively under the command of General McPherson and General Schofield. The three corps were to unite to the east of Atlanta near what is now Grant park, the objective being to cut off the Georgia railroad, which was then the main source of supply of munitions and men to the Confederate army.

The corps under General Thomas was engaged by the Confederates in the Battle of Peachtree Creek on July 18, 1864, in which 8,500 soldiers of Federal and Confederate forces were killed. General Thomas then joined the two other corps of the Federal army.

The Confederate forces fell back through the city to form the line of battle on the site of the city and the great Battle of Atlanta was fought on July 22, 1864, with 25,000 killed and wounded.

All of this Vice President Coolidge related in a quiet and authentic manner. He said that he had made a careful study of the movements of both armies around Atlanta. He was intimately acquainted with the details of these engagements and his account held his listeners spellbound. An unusually quiet and unassuming man, given to little speech, he talked for more than one hour on the subject.

He and Mrs. Coolidge returned to Washington that night.

CASH BONUS VETO WARNED BY F. D. R.

Gag Rules Cast Aside as Favor Looms for Bond
Pay Measure.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—A renewed warning that the president will veto an outright cash payment bonus bill was issued today, leading fresh energy to the congress members who hope eventually to win a compromise.

In fact, house leaders agreed to cast aside gag rules and permit votes not only on the two major cash payment measures but also the most talked of "compromise," under which veterans would get negotiable bonds instead of cash for their adjusted compensation certificates.

With initial house consideration of the bonus bill set for tomorrow, Chairman Harris, of the senate finance committee, went to the White House. On his way out he paused long enough to say:

"I believe the president will veto either bill."

He meant either the Patman bill with its provision for the issuance of $2,000,000,000 in new currency or the Vinson-American Legion bill, which does not specify how the money should be raised to pay off the bonuses.

At the same time, one of his colleagues—Senator Tydings—was conferring with the veterans' administration about his "compromise" plan. He made some changes in the original plan, and introduced a new bill.

Explanation.
Roughly, under his proposal a veteran who held a $1,000 adjusted compensation certificate could exchange it for bonds. If he sold the bonds now, he would get about $708. If he held them until 1945—the year the adjusted compensation certificates and the

First Tree Is Planted In Great Shelter Belt

MANGUM, Okla., March 18.—(UP)—The first tree of the great midwestern shelter belt was planted today.

Without ceremony, George Phillips, bespectacled Oklahoma state forestry chief, spaded out a hole on the Greer county farm of H. B. Curtis, 20 miles northeast of Mangum, and set in it a young Austrian pine.

As he tamped the red clay back around the roots, he said it was the "very first tree" of the myriads that will extend row on row from western Oklahoma to the black hills of the Dakotas—the heart of the government's plan materializes.

bonds both would mature—he would get approximately the full $1,000.

In addition to Senator Tydings, several house members have taken up that proposal. Among them are Chairman McKeen, of the house foreign affairs committee, and Cochran, of the foreign affairs committee, both administration stalwarts.

With the rules committee today finally agreed upon the procedure to be used when the bonus comes up tomorrow, the Vinson bill will be formally presented by the ways and means committee, but any bill dealing with payment of the adjusted compensation certificates may be offered as a substitute.

"Fair Tussle."
On top of that, the highly unusual procedure will let the negotiable bond compromise get a second direct vote on their plan, if their first shot is unsuccessful. They will be allowed to move to shut the whole problem back to the ways and means committee with instructions to bring it back forthwith with the cash payment replaced by the bond payment plan.

The procedure agreed to by the rules committee apparently stillled rumor of dissatisfaction in both the Patman and Vinson camps. Representative Patman said: "That's O. K." Representative Vinson remarked: "That looks all right. It gives us a fair tussle."

Both were confident they would win in the house. Leaders forecast a sound battle for the Tydings-Cochran-McKeen compromise, but Representative Cochran, democrat, Missouri, insisted:

"I don't see how these folks can justify themselves when they tell the veterans the bonus bill will be paid in cash and they know the attitude of the president. Why not pass a bill that he might accept?"

In addition to forecasting the veto, Senator Harrison said there would be no attempt to delay a day, a vote on the bonus bill passed by the house.

U. S. SPENDING POLICY RAPPED BY TALMADGE

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 18.—(AP) Governor Eugene Talmadge tonight rapped the national administration as "encouraging debt and saying we can borrow ourselves out of debt."

Speaking before the 123d anniversary dinner of the Hibernian Society, the Georgia chief executive said this state "is staying out of debt and added that, "after all, debt of government is what causes high taxes and in the end, confiscation of property."

Earlier, the governor referred to the old constitutional provision adoption by the state in 1877 which says Georgia, its counties and municipalities can not contract a debt beyond the fiscal year except through a bond issue approved by a vote of two-thirds of the people.

"I think one of the best things the legislature could do would be to pass laws to enforce that provision of the constitution," the governor declared. "Here in the presence of judges," he added, "I say that the only exceptions made to that constitutional provision have been through court-made law, and court-made law has got us into trouble."

The plain clause in the constitution, he went on, has not been followed up by putting teeth in the law to enforce its provisions. The governor declared he thought any official who violated that provision in regard to debt should have been made subject to removal from office.

At present, he declared, there is no protection against officials who carelessly or recklessly burden the citizenry with excessive debt.

Governor Talmadge said Georgia now enjoys the distinction of being in the best financial condition of any state in the Union. The bonded debt, he said, is less than $5,000,000 and the current indebtedness $2,400,000 with some $4,000,000 paid in the last two years.

Refugees Return As Flood Recedes

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 18.—(AP) Flood waters of the St. Frances, White and Black rivers still menaced a half dozen northeast Kansas towns tonight, but as the crests of these rampaging tributaries moved southward, waters receded from southern Missouri farm lands, and 2,700 refugees returned to their homes.

Barring unforeseen heavy rains, the big Mississippi river, which has played no part in the spring sprees of its tributaries, will crest at Memphis a week from today, at from 37 to 37 1/2 feet, slightly above the technical flood stage, the weather bureau said today. A stage of at least 43 feet would be necessary to cause concern along the main stem.

$2,220,479 Paid Here In U. S. Income Taxes

Georgians to date have paid $2,220,479.69 in federal income taxes for 1934, an increase of $447,403.86 over returns made through March 15, 1934. It was announced Monday by W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue here.

The gain in receipts over last year, when $1,773,075.83 was collected, reflects the improvement in business conditions in the state, it was pointed out.

The last-minute rush was one of the greatest in the history of the internal revenue office, payment on March 15 totaling $1,175,307.08. This compares with last-minute payments of $725,714.63 on March 15, 1934.

RELIEF TO STATES SLASHED BY U. S.

28 Million Less, With Georgia Slated To Receive $925,026.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(UP)—Federal relief expenditures will be approximately $28,000,000 less than in February, FEHA announced today as it allocated $67,575,313 for unemployment aid the last half of this month.

The government spent about $157,000,000 last month for the needy. March allotments total $129,732,527. Officials attributed part of the decline in costs to increased contributions from states and communities.

Administrator Harry L. Hopkins withheld grants for the last half of the month from Idaho, Maryland, and Tennessee. They will be given money, he said, after the state legislatures make appropriations.

He granted $1,125,515 to Arkansas to defray expenses of the whole month after the legislature took action.

The allotments today also included $1,217,682 to Florida; $850,000 to Georgia; $925,026 to Kentucky; $700,000 to Louisiana; $850,613 to Mississippi; $300,000 to Missouri; $1,471,507 to North Carolina; $675,000 to South Carolina; $569,361 to Virginia; $650,000.

Mrs. Maxwell Guilty Of Slaying Husband

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 18.—(AP) After a surprise plea of guilty to a charge of voluntary manslaughter, Mrs. Floyd Thompson Maxwell was sentenced to two to five years in the Shelby county workhouse late today in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, Maurice C. Maxwell.

On trial for the second time in connection with her husband's death, Mrs. Maxwell's plea came after five jurors had been accepted.

Defense attorneys asked for a recess. They conferred with prosecutors and then District Attorney General W. Tyler McLain announced that the 29-year-old defendant had decided to enter the guilty plea. The attorney-general recommended the sentence.

Maxwell, an insurance company cashier, was shot to death last April 18 as he slept in the family residence. Mrs. Maxwell first told police that a burglar had killed him and then, police said, she made a statement that she shot her husband "because he abused me."

Fatherland's Pride Restored, Says Former Crown Prince

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER.
(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)
BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm broke a self-imposed silence of many months today to tell America that Saturday, the day Hitler announced reintroduction of military conscription, was one of the happiest days of his life. "I know myself to be one with the entire German people," he said in a statement written for the Associated Press, "in rejoicing that the honor and independence of our fatherland have been recovered."

At the same time he was emphatic in thinking that "the third reich unconditionally needs peace for the completion of its great cultural and economic tasks," as he praised "our fuhrer," the former Austrian corporal who now holds more power than did the crown prince's own father, former Kaiser Wilhelm II.

It is only on the rarest occasions that the ever-youthful athletically trained future head of the Hohenzollern family, who is now 52 years old, will consent to speak or write for publication. The subject must be very close to his heart and the occasion unusual one to unseal his lips.

This time he did not hesitate a moment to submit a written statement, in which he declared:

"All responsible European governments must in my estimation more and more come around to the viewpoint that old Europe simply cannot afford another war, but that on the contrary its future depends solely upon the closest co-operation of all its nations and the defense of European cultural achievements."

He looked upon German conscription as a new hope for the youth of Germany, saying "our underlying thought is that the great school for training of youth which our Prussian-German army had been for centuries, is again being set in motion."

"Only he who experienced the period after the Revolution of 1818 here in Germany can grasp that many veracious manifestations among a certain portion of our youth can be explained only on the ground that these young people, until now, had to do without the strict and severe but just schooling of the army."

"My great wish," he wrote in a closing paragraph, "is that your American compatriots who so frequently evince a most comprehensive understanding of our German fatherland may, with reference to this question, also judge us justly and fairly."

Interested in Views.

The Associated Press suggested to Friedrich Wilhelm on Sunday that America would be extraordinarily interested in his view on conscription, in a telephone call to his Cecilienhof castle at Potsdam.

"Meet me at noon tomorrow in the Hohenzollern administration buildings in Unter den Linden at Berlin," said the crown prince cheerfully. One could tell he was still in high spirits over the impressive Memorial Day services at the state opera, where Hitler greeted him cordially and high nazi saluted him.

When the Associated Press correspondent entered Wilhelm's study on the second floor of the palace the crown prince—the words "former" or "ex" are never used in Germany when speaking of the man in whom many still see the future ruler of Germany—entered. He was dressed in brown plus-fours, a blue sweater and brown tie. With an engaging smile he shook hands and recalled former meetings, then plunged immediately to the purpose of the meeting.

"I have just dictated a statement for you," he said, "and it is being re-typed right now. Let's sit down for a chat meanwhile."

Off the Record.

It was then agreed that the conversation was to be considered "off the record." It is betraying no secret, however, to say that the crown prince is following international developments with an interest and knowledge that would surprise many a diplomat.

The conversation of 30 minutes was conducted in the utmost frankness. It was interrupted by the appearance of his imperial highness' secretary, who handed his chief three sheets of thick paper with a crown embossed in the left-hand corner of each and under it the letter "W."

"That is what I have prepared for you," he said, and read aloud, especially emphasizing the portions referring to the terrors of another war and to Germany's realization that war would be madness. As he finished he asked, slightly abashed, "Will that serve your purpose?"

"Exactly, but may I request your imperial highness to kindly sign the statement so that there may be no doubt regarding its authenticity?"

"Certainly," said the crown prince with an amused chuckle. "Have you a pen?" And as he signed "Wilhelm" in huge letters he added "Let's see, today is March 18, isn't it?" And then wrote under his name the full date, in Arabic except for the day of the month which he wrote in Roman numerals.

WILLING TO TALK PEACE.

GERMANY TELLS LONDON

LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—Britain's flat warning to Reichsfuhrer Hitler that his army conscription law increases the uneasiness of Europe brought an immediate answer from Germany today that she was willing to talk European peace with Sir Simon as scheduled.

The result here was a vastly relieved atmosphere. The British note, given to the German foreign minister through the British ambassador at Berlin, had asked whether Hitler still wanted to hold the conversations once postponed because of Hitler's "white paper cold."

The British foreign secretary and Captain Anthony Eden are leaving

CAPITOL SILENT ON REICH ACTION

Roosevelt Calls Upon Norman Davis and Hull for Opinions.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—The American government today carefully surveyed the situation growing out of Adolf Hitler's defiance of the Treaty of Versailles but neither the White House nor the state department would hint at the course to be taken.

President Roosevelt and Norman Davis, American ambassador-at-large and disarmament expert, conferred during the afternoon, presumably upon the reich's move to re-arm. The roving diplomat is familiar with the ramifications of involved European politics and with the reaction and developments which may ensue.

Neither Davis nor Secretary Hull, who accompanied him to the White House, would comment on the conference. It was learned authoritatively, however, that this country has not yet been in formal communication with other governments on the situation. It was added in the same quarter that Davis has no immediate plans to return to Europe.

Before going to the executive mansion, Davis was closeted for hours with Secretary Hull and other diplomatic officials. Although officially the government's attitude was one of silence, one high official said privately that the German move undoubtedly constituted a serious breach of the international situation of Europe.

A frank expression that America should keep out of the European muddle until a change is evident, meanwhile came from Chairman Key Pittman, of the senate foreign relations committee.

There is nothing, in my opinion, that we can do to relieve the situation," he said, "and therefore intervention on our part would only tend to aggravate a very serious if not threatening condition."

"It behooves our government, in my opinion, to postpone all action with regard to Europe, either of an economic or monetary nature until a better mental and moral condition is established in Europe."

Observers said the Nevada apparently expressed the prevailing sentiment of congress, a sentiment which showed itself in senate rejection of World Court ratification despite President Roosevelt's call for adherence.

Sunday for the German capital. The German reply assured that the conversations will be carried on within the scope of the Anglo-French proposals, on the original basis.

Officials expressed satisfaction and relief that Germany was willing to proceed in spite of her unilateral step assuming equality by organizing an army.

The discussions in Berlin will include the settlement of European problems—a mutual air pact, an Eastern Locarno treaty, general disarmament, Germany's return to the League of Nations, and the guaranteeing the independence of Austria.

The British note protested that Germany's unilateral action has taken in advance what she would like to have been obtained through future discussion. It was felt, however, that Germany is still willing to enter into some agreement regarding her armaments, as testified by the nature of her reply today.

Sir John Simon interrupted parliamentary business to announce the receipt of Germany's favorable reply. Cheers greeted his words.

"The German government," he said, "has told our ambassador it still wished our visit to take place and agreed that the conversations will be held within the scope and for the purpose previously agreed upon."

Captain Eden will continue to Moscow after he and Sir John talk with Hitler next Monday and Tuesday as originally scheduled. He will also go to Warsaw for similar conversations.

The British note, delivered to the embassy in Berlin, said "his majesty's government feel bound to convey to the German government their protest against the announcement made by the latter March 16 of a decision to adopt conscription and to increase the peace force of the German army to 36 divisions."

"Following upon the announcement of a German air force, such a declaration is a further example of unilateral action which, apart from the issue of principle, is calculated seriously to increase the uneasiness of Europe."

FRANCE TO PROTEST JOINTLY WITH BRITISH PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—France plans to make a protest similar to the British one against Germany's decision to create a conscript army, it was learned tonight.

Terms of the protest, to be dispatched through Andre Francois-Poncet, ambassador to Berlin, will not be definitely fixed until after Wednesday's cabinet session.

French officials said the visit of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to Berlin was especially designed to learn what are Germany's real intentions.

Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin had a long talk this afternoon with Louis Maurin, minister of war, and then visited President Laval at the Elysee palace. Flandin and Maurin, it was understood, discussed the government attitude to be taken during Wednesday's debate in the chamber of deputies.

Germany's reported program for a 400,000-ton navy was believed tonight in authoritative circles as constituting the co-operation of England, Italy and France against German rearmament.

England is felt now to be under a

Text of Britain's Protest Against Action of Hitler

LONDON, March 18.—(UP)—Text of the British note protesting Germany's proposal to raise a conscript army of 500,000, follows:

His majesty's government of the United Kingdom feel bound to convey to the German government their protest against the announcement made by the latter on the 16th of March, of a decision to adopt conscription and increase the peace basis of the German army to 36 divisions.

Following the announcement regarding the German air force, such a declaration is a further example of unilateral action which, apart from the issue of principle, is calculated seriously to increase the uneasiness of Europe.

The proposal for an Anglo-German meeting arose out of the terms of an Anglo-French communique of the 3rd February and the German reply of 14th February, supplemented by further communications between his majesty's government and the German government.

His majesty's government consider it necessary to call specific attention to the German government to the effect of these communications.

A London communique of 3rd February, while noting that armaments limited by treaty could not be modified by unilateral action, declared that the British and French governments favored a general settlement, freely negotiated between Germany and the other powers, which would provide for the organization of security in Europe on the lines indicated therein, and would simultaneously establish agreements about armaments which, in the case of Germany, would replace the relevant provisions of Part V of the treaty of Versailles.

The communique went on to state that it would be a part of the general settlement which it contemplated that Germany would resume her active membership in the League of Nations, and proceeded to sketch out terms of an air pact between the Locarno treaty powers to operate as a deterrent to aggression and ensure immunity from sudden attacks from the air.

The German government's reply, 10 days later, welcomed the spirit of friendly confidence, which the Anglo-French communique expressed, and undertook that the German government would submit to an exhaustive examination the questions raised in the first part of the London communique.

It agreed that the spirit expressed in that communique of the free negotiations between sovereign states could alone lead to lasting international settlements in the sphere of armaments.

In particular, it welcomed the proposal for an air pact between the Locarno treaty powers, which the German reply concluded by saying that double spur, threats of German air and naval strength combined, urging her to seek common action to meet the appearance of a new and powerfully armed Germany.

RUSSIA WARNS OF WAR IN NEAR FUTURE MOSCOW, March 18.—(AP)—An official warning went out over Russia today that war "may break out unexpectedly."

Michael Kalinin, president of the all-Russia central executive committee, made this blunt statement in an address yesterday to the organizers of the red cavalry. The speech was made public today.

"Our army should always be ready," Kalinin warned, attacking "the present political whims of the dominating classes of capitalist countries."

"It is not necessary," he said, "to prove that the soviet union is against war. There is no other government in the world which has ever manifested a desire to make more than ours."

Officers and members of the first red cavalry unit, organized 15 years ago, were decorated by the government.

The "next war," Kalinin said, "besides devotion, enthusiasm, courage and self-sacrifice, it will demand the amplest knowledge on the part of the fighters."

Although he did not mention Germany, newspapers here urged a quick mutual assistance agreement by Europeans powers to check what was termed war preparation.

Pravda, organ of the government, asserted "much territory in Europe is attracting the rapacious eyes of the nazi conquerors," and said Hitler's conscription move is "just the beginning."

"Germany has been arming for two years," said Pravda. "This is no secret to anybody."

have to be levied to finance this and since the treasury.

He contended, however, that the new levies should be deferred until prosperity returns.

The cry of jeopardizing the nation's credit came from Senator Adams, democrat, Colorado, author of the proposal to slash the works funds in half.

The diminutive Coloradan did not mention taxes, but shouted a vigorous demand that the appropriation be reduced. He contended the bill was "un-sound" and would lead "inevitably to repudiation of debts or inflation."

Begging a fist on his desk and out of this bill for it," Borah shot back.

Adams said the bill not only appropriated "large sums but unnecessary sums."

He said that most of the money would go for "needless projects" and that "if we continue to pile up deficits, leading inevitably to repudiation or inflation, you will not secure what America needs above everything else—recovery."

The bill proceeded on the theory, he said, that "money comes down like manna."

Colorado had prepared $300,000,000 worth of projects, he said, although it represented only 1 per cent of the total population. He then added that if every state was "encouraged" by the bill to prepare like blueprints and the money was distributed fairly a total of $30,000,000,000 would be needed.

"Do you think if my people knew that they should be requesting me to support this bill for a lot of useless projects?" he asked.

"This bill is an unwarranted confession that we have failed and must turn and go another way."

Hurt Building Sale To Be Closed Today

The way was cleared Monday for sale of the Hurt building, Atlanta's 17-story skyscraper, to the highest bidder when Judge E. Marvin Underwood dismissed a petition filed in federal court by second mortgage bondholders to halt the sale.

Auction of the building was started March 5, but was halted when second mortgage holders petitioned Judge Underwood to reopen a federal bankruptcy hearing which was dismissed last January. The second mortgage holders contended they had been denied a hearing at the time the case was dismissed.

Judge Underwood Monday dismissed the petition, and sale of the building will proceed this morning before Judge E. E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court. At the March 5 sale the Hurt Building, Inc. was the high bidder with a bid of $2,280,000. Further bids will be received by Judge Pomeroy this morning.

Clint W. Hager, attorney representing persons holding $350,000 in second mortgage bonds on the Hurt building, announced at the conclusion of the federal court hearing that he would appeal the case to the circuit court.

Broadway Show Girls Serve as Models in New York Preview.

NEW YORK, March 18.—A unique presentation of spring styles was given recently in the stately Basildon room at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria to a small but select audience of New York society and fashion leaders.

Miss Eileen Cummings, former editor of Vogue magazine, conducted the pre-view. Introducing a brilliant collection of costumes for daytime and evening wear, Miss Cummings procured for each ensemble a well-known Broadway show girl to illustrate the particular feminine type for which each gown and dress had been created.

Miss Emily Fabian, of the Paradise restaurant, modeling a classic evening gown of peach colored satin and Miss Santre of "Revenge With Music," wearing a fitted cocktail dress in the new Paris pink, were outstanding favorites from the standpoint of applause. Each costume was worn over one of the new Swarovski foundations and these were later described in detail by Miss Hulda Thsen, well-known designer.

Among the other large owls are the barred owls, whose calls have an awfully shivery sound when heard for the first time at a little distance.

At first you think you are hearing human voices. Later the disturbing thought occurs to you that if those sounds are human, they emanate from the throat of an insane man. If you are alone in the swamps on a turkey hunt, as Fred Barkalow was the night he heard these birds the first time, you have now reached the stage where you could scratch a match on the goose-flesh that appears between the shoulder blades. Sooner or later, if you have any business in the swamps alone at that time of night, you realize that they are owls and try to laugh it off. "Just owls," you remark to yourself. "Yes, just owls. Ha, ha, ha," and then your laughter freezes as the very sounds come back from the owls themselves.

It is not a sound that one anticipates with any great degree of pleasure. The last time I went to the great swamp a pair of these round-headed birds woke me about 12 one night from their vantage point almost directly above my head. The variety of expression and inflection that these birds can put into their chatter is amazing and delightful if you are accustomed to the sound. I have known good woodsmen to get a terrible reaction from the repetition of the calling near-by. It will get everyone sooner or later and I am expecting my time to come any night whatever.

Okefenokee guides use the calling of the horned owl as a means of signaling one another. I cannot tell the difference between the owl and the human unless near to, but there is a quality of the human voice that the guides distinguish by and altering the intonation slightly they achieve weird and wonderful effects of communication. Who said African drums?

There is a legend down there that the deer hunters might as well stay in their camps unless the barred owls give what is known as the deer feeding call. I said this was legend, but Fred Hebard says it's true and I have no reason to doubt his veracity at all. What this call sounds like I cannot imagine, but it is said to be distinctive.

In the light of cold reason, what connection can there be between the calling of the barred owls and the movements of deer? None, at first glance. But there are doubtless conditions of the weather that influence both these factors. We will say more about this later.

FLORIDA CANAL HOPES BRIGHTER, SAYS ICKES

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 18. (AP)—Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, expressed the belief today that the Florida canal was a much better chance now than before.

The better chance he attributed principally to President Roosevelt's new work-relief program.

"The only question has been whether the canal would pay for itself," he said. "The money is the thing." He added that he did not have the figures at his finger-tips but thought the cost of constructing the canal would be less than first estimated by the engineers.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 18.—(AP) Governor Martin L. Davey predicted tonight if Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins is tried on Davey's charge of criminal libel, a "wave of popular indignation" will arise against what he termed Hopkins' "cowardly and nefarious action."

He spoke before a joint session of the Ohio legislature, referring to the charges Hopkins made last Saturday when he took over relief administration in Ohio. Hopkins had declared in a letter he possessed affidavits showing "corruption" in the Ohio relief administration.

The democratic governor obtained a warrant today charging Hopkins with criminal libel, an offense which

Chest Colds

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed.

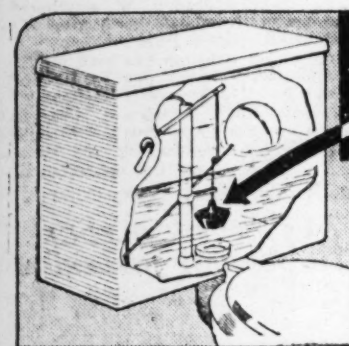

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used.

ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs' Drug Store sells every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if not fully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.—(adv.)

300,000 Pounds Foodstuff Grown
On Prison Farm at Milledgeville

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Seeking to improve the lot of those under his care, R. H. Lawrence, superintendent of the Georgia state prison farm here, is making full use of his agricultural and peace officer experience.

Appointed superintendent of the state prison farm on January 1, 1934, by the Georgia prison commission, Lawrence, native of Baldwin county, immediately began putting to use the knowledge he had gained as a successful farmer.

Holds Down Expenses.
Lawrence has taken steps to increase crop production on the farm and hold down expenses. In the words of Judge E. L. Rainey, chairman of the prison commission, "he has been on the job."

During 1934 Lawrence grew more than 300,000 pounds of foodstuffs and other crops on the 4,000 acres of land owned by the state farm. The 650 inmates were given a diversified diet of fresh food, including milk, dairy products and meats, also produced at the institution.

Only those physically capable do any of the farm labor. Others are among those assigned to the automobile tag plant, where 415,000 sets of tags (two to a set) were manufactured in 1934 for use the year at a considerable saving to the state.

A printing plant operated in connection with the tag plant provides the necessary envelopes and other is not extraditable, and challenged Hopkins to come to Ohio.

After the warrant was issued Hopkins announced in Washington the affidavits had been sent to the Ohio attorney-general and to prosecuting attorneys of Lucas county (Toledo) and Franklin county (Columbus). Department of Justice attorneys said in Washington they are ready to defend Hopkins.

Davey requested the joint session tonight to discuss relief, and told the legislators "I demand" a thorough investigation of Ohio relief.

After hearing Davey, the senate voted 29 to 0 to investigate all phases of relief since the state relief commission was created early in 1933, and turned its resolution over to the house.

The resolution provides that the inquiry be conducted by a committee composed of five members of the senate and five members of the house.

He declared "whatever has happened" in relief administration is chargeable to Hopkins and Frank D. Henderson, who was in charge of Ohio relief under former Governor George White, also a democrat.

Charges Hopkins.

The governor reiterated that waste and inefficiency are rife in the Ohio relief administration and recalled his earlier demands that Hopkins take charge in names as well as in fact.

He declared that until recently "Mr. Hopkins has been hiding behind the scenes, and running the whole (Ohio) program through his federal agents in Columbus."

When Hopkins assumed control over the week-end, said Davey, "he merely admitted the truth and stepped out where he belongs, from behind the curtain. This is just what I have been urging him to do, and I am supremely glad he did it."

In urging a complete investigation, the governor added, "and let me repeat with enthusiasm and emphasis: 'Let the chips fall where they may.'"

This phrase was contained in President Roosevelt's instructions to Hopkins to take over Ohio relief.

Davey told the legislators he rose to defense of his name "with a feeling of deep indignation against a base and foul character."

Meanwhile, C. C. Stillman, FERA regional officer, took over administration of Ohio federal relief. He was designated after Hopkins, in a letter to Davey Saturday, asserted he had "incontrovertible evidence" of political corruption in the Ohio relief administration.

Dare.
Hopkins charged that the Davey campaign committee, shortly after the November election, conducted a "shake-down" of individuals and concerns doing business with the Ohio relief administration and that the funds collected were "to help pay off the deficit of your campaign and the expense of your inaugural."

Davey, in his telegram told Hopkins the warrant was sworn out because, "in your letter released for publication Saturday, you made a printed matter for use in the distribution of the automobile tags.

Lawrence, in his management of the state farm, is putting to use the practical farming experience he gained in Baldwin county.

"I have been operating on a little less money than he has been there," said Judge Rainey. Last year's state appropriation for the farm was between $67,000 and $68,000, with all salaries, prisoners' medical costs and other expenses paid out of that sum, Judge Rainey said.

Lawrence served in the army during the World War and afterwards was county police and deputy sheriff of Baldwin county. His knowledge of law violators and his understanding of the problems they face in their efforts to re-establish themselves as law-abiding citizens, was obtained when he was a police officer.

Treated Well.
"Prisoners have always been treated well at the farm," said Judge Rainey, "and Lawrence is keeping up the standard."

The state prison farm is somewhat of a clearing house for the various county chain gangs, the numbers of aged, infirm, maimed or otherwise physically incapacitated prisoners unfit for heavy manual labor often runs as high as 75 per cent of the total number of inmates, an authority said.

Despite this condition, Lawrence has nevertheless been able, by practical management of the farm, to make it produce more and yet keep the cost down.

He is true to you did not actually charge me with wrong doing personally, but you made a studied effort to create the impression that I have been guilty of some terrible wrong. . . .

"I realize you cannot be extradited for this offense but I challenge you to come to Ohio, submit to arrest, and try this case in open court. If you fail or refuse to do so, you will be guilty of the lowest form of cowardice by hitting below the belt and running. . . .

"Come to Ohio if you dare and show that you are a man or turn and run like a coward and confess your contemptible character."

The governor disclaimed any knowledge of the financial affairs of the democratic committee or the cost of his campaign. He said he had "left the relief program severely alone."

Davey's personally selected chairman of democratic state executive committee, Francis W. Poulson, of Cleveland, in a statement, corroborated Davey's contention he knew nothing of the committee financials. Poulson said the committee solicited funds and that he assumed full responsibilities and offered "no apologies."

The governor was accompanied into the Newark municipal court by Lick County Prosecutor Kenneth Kreider and Attorney Dennis Dunaway, former prosecutor of Ashtabula county. He explained he had sought the extradition of Newark because Kreider, his chief counsel, resides there.

Ohio Attorney-General John W. Bricker, a republican, said he expected to receive from Hopkins tomorrow the affidavits charging "political corruption" in connection with the alleged "shake-down."

Hopkins disclosed at Washington that he had sent the affidavits to Bricker and also to the prosecuting attorneys of Franklin (Columbus) and Lucas (Toledo) counties. He declined to make the papers public, but after the federal administrator had received the Davey's telegram, he still declined to say whether he would come to Ohio and face the charge of criminal libel.

Leaders of the legislature were undecided as to their course. Some favored introduction of a joint resolution to require the attorney-general to make an investigation of Hopkins' charges. Others were of the opinion that the lawmakers should allow some of the "smoke" to clear away before any action is taken.

PEOPLE WANT NRA,
STATES WILLIAMS

Continuation 'Most Desirable,' Senate Finance Body Told.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(UP) If put to a vote of the people, a majority of Americans would ask that the NRA be extended, NRA Chairman S. Clay Williams told the senate finance committee today.

Williams was asked by Senator Daniel O. Hastings, republican, Delaware, what would happen if NRA extension was put to a vote of the people.

"That's a political question," said Williams, "but, I feel a majority would favor it."

Chairman Pat Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, announced that the committee hoped to hear Clarence Darrough, noted attorney and NRA critic, at a session Wednesday. Darrough will not appear until Senator Pat McCarran, democrat, Nevada, co-author of the NRA inquiry resolution, will be able to attend.

Hastings asked Williams if NRA had been "successful enough" to warrant a two-year extension in its present form.

The NRA chairman replied that "certain modifications" would be necessary, but a continuation was "certainly desirable."

Senator James F. Couzens, republican, Michigan, asked Williams' opinion on a provision in some codes that gives the government power virtually to decide whether an individual can open a business.

"That's a rotten principle," Williams said. He started to add to his reply but Couzens interrupted.

"I don't say anything more," he said. "It will spoil your answer."

JUNCTION CITY MAN

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 18.—(AP) C. W. Moore Jr., 32, of Junction City, member of a prominent Taylor county family, was killed at Geneva, Ga., last night when an automobile he was said to have been driving, failed to make a turn at a road fork and crashed into a small building.

Moore had been to Columbus and was returning to his home when the accident occurred. Witnesses stated that he failed to make the turn at the fork of the Talbotton-Junction City road in Geneva and that his automobile crashed into the side of a small building, in use as a warehouse. The automobile, a light sedan, was wedged under the building, crushing Mr. Moore to death. Persons arriving at the scene had difficulty in extracting the body from the wreckage, it was said.

CRISP MILITARY ROAD CREATED BY ASSEMBLY

By the Associated Press.

The highway running from Savannah Beach to Columbus by way of Cordele was designated as the "Crisp Military Highway" in a measure passed by the house of representatives Monday.

Sponsored by Representative Dorris, of Crisp county, the measure memorializes the late Charles R. Crisp, who served as congressman from Georgia and who was at one time speaker of the national house. His son, Charles R. Crisp, also served in congress.

The highway connects Fort Benning at Columbus and Fort Screven at Savannah Beach and passes through Savannah, McKee, Cordele and Americus.

A similar resolution was passed recently by the senate.

Floor Leader Roy W. Harris announced Monday that the bill making slot machines contraband property in Georgia would be acted on by the house of representatives in plenty of time for the senate to handle it this week.

The bill is sponsored by Representative Harris and W. L. Lanier, of Richmond county, but their colleague, W. K. Barrett, did not sign the measure.

Senator W. M. Lester said Monday that the senate appropriations committee would take up as early as possible a house-approved resolution appropriating $2,500 for a memorial to the late Dr. Crawford W. Long.

The measure was passed by the house last week. The money is to be used for erecting a monument to the late Georgian, who discovered the use of ether as an anesthetic, at his home place at Danielsville in Madison county.

Sponsors of this measure were representatives L. M. Smith, of Madison, and Helen W. Coxon, of Long county. Long county was named for Dr. Long.

The senate University of Georgia committee Monday by an adverse report on a bill blocked an attempt to re-establish the old Junior College at Clarksville in the ninth district.

The bill was reported with a recommendation that it do not pass.

Senator Lamar Tucker, of Athens, chairman of the University of Georgia committee, said off the floor that the passage of the bill would "undo the entire university system." It would cost about $130,000 to re-establish the school, he said.

The house and senate Monday accepted a conference committee report on what is known as the deficiency judgment bill.

The report provided that when property is to be sold under a judgment that five days' notice be given to the debtor and that the judge of the court involved may pass on legality of the notice. The bill as originally passed did not contain the five-day notice clause. It merely provided that the judge pass on legality of the sale.

HITLER'S BOLD STEP

Whatever the result of Hitler's bold defiance of the provisions of the Versailles treaty denying Germany and her allies in the World War the right to re-arm, it should serve a good purpose in clarifying uncertain international relationships that have kept Europe disturbed for several years.

The compulsory military service order, followed in 24 hours with the arrest of 700 German pastors for anti-Nazi utterances in their pulpits, and the indications that increases in the naval and air fighting forces will also be ordered, makes it plain that Hitler has determined to sever all outside influence in the affairs of the reich, and to crush all internal opposition to his policies.

The immediate result will be to bring about a more united front between Great Britain, France, Italy and probably Russia in dealing with the threat of a re-armed Germany, headed by a dangerous and none too level-headed leader.

Hitler's prattling about peace will deceive none of the other European nations. Germany once more re-armed will be as potential a threat as she was in 1914, and there is no reason to believe that Hitler will give any more consideration to treaties or to the rights of neutrals than did the Kaiser.

It is not probable that the military training order arises out of any desire for an early resort to arms by Germany, even to the extent of invading Austria, the annexation of which is a major objective of the Nazis. Any attempt of that nature would find French and Italian soldiers pouring over the Austrian borders by the hundreds of thousands, with the probable co-operation of British and Russian air forces.

What is more likely is that the move is in the nature of a bluff, with nothing to lose and everything to gain, so far as internal conditions in Germany are concerned. If he gets away with it, and the probability is that he will, Hitler will not only have added to his personal following, but strengthened his hold on the governmental reins.

None of the other European nations are in a mood now to use force to prevent the re-arming of Germany, and there are few other punitive steps that could be taken. Economically, Germany is already largely isolated, and she meets insurmountable obstacles when she attempts to increase either her trade or political influence in surrounding territory.

Probably the chief result of the Hitler defiance of the Versailles treaty will be to bring about a close defensive alliance between Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia. Such an alliance with the huge land forces of France and Italy, the British fleet and tremendous Russian air strength would build an iron ring around Germany, and the nation would be far more helpless than it is now under the provisions of the Versailles treaty.

INCOME RETURNS UP

The 29 per cent increase in individual income tax returns received and tabulated in Washington reflects the extent to which the recovery program has put the country back on the highway to recovery.

Even larger increases, it is anticipated, will be shown by the returns made by corporations.

The returns are an acid test of the results of the New Deal; they are based on the same levies as were those of last year.

Not only have the majority of incomes reported shown a healthy increase, but the number filed is also far above the figure for last year.

Every indication is that the improvement registered last year has continued during the first two and a half months of 1935. Especially is this true with industry, which, in many lines, has been taxed to capacity output to make up for the depletion of stocks resulting from the great pre-holiday trade in November and December.

Certainly the mounting totals of the income tax returns carry a message of encouragement.

THE FEDERAL CRIME ROUND UP

The nation-wide drive against organized crime conducted over the week-end by federal agents, netting approximately 3,000 criminals of all types, will prove a death blow to the gangs that have come into existence during the past decade.

Bootlegging rings were the heaviest sufferers, 1,583 of their members being arrested, $158,000 worth of property confiscated, 900 stills destroyed and 119 automobiles seized. Thousands of dollars' worth of drugs were captured, a huge amount of stolen jewelry recovered, more than a half million lottery tickets destroyed, horse and cattle thieves tracked down, and 22 stolen boats returned to their owners.

Crime rings that have been practically immune from prosecution have been wiped out, with their "higher-ups" jailed and records and goods confiscated.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who personally directed the drive, promises that there will be no let-up and that the federal agents from now on will maintain a determined warfare on organized crime.

Especially will the raids of dope rings have a vital effect in reducing crime of all kinds. Three-fourths of crime's recruits come from those who are users of dope of some kind, and their entry into lives of lawlessness is, in most instances, directly attributable to their use of narcotics.

The intensified campaign against the illicit dope trade will, therefore, not only thin the ranks of crime, but at the same time, by reducing the number of new addicts, will tend to lessen the number who every year enter lives of crime.

There has been no more outstanding achievement of the democratic administration than the breaking of the backbone of organized crime. The leaders of the underworld who held sway for more than a decade are either dead or in jail and their followers are scattered. The racketeers who stifled business in the larger cities are now few and far between.

The revolutionizing of crime conditions throughout the country in a comparatively few months emphasizes that modern crime must be combated by modern methods of suppression—methods which call for an alert mobile force, such as the federal agents, to work in close co-operation with local and state police forces.

The roundup over the week-end is fair notice to the crime gangs that have had comparatively smooth sailing for years, that their reign is over.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Eating Question.

It is astonishing how little variety there is in the meals of the people in Nigeria, of which Timbuctoo is the capital. They drink milk. And with that you have about recited the bill of fare of the average Niger. Milk! Camel and goat milk, at that. Don't ask me how it tastes. I am so sick of the stuff that I can't think of a soup-kitchen near my home in Paris, near the Hospital Laennec, drives me almost frantic.

I had come to eat on this trip; once, and never again. Also once a piece of elephant steak, a piece of the trunk, I think they said it was. I could not eat it. But my own leather trunk looks more appetizing, and probably are. I have not tried them—yet.

Once in a while the Moors eat mutton. Good luck to them. I have eaten it for three months now. I know what it is like. They say mutton is mentioned in the Koran as one of the chief delicacies of paradise. If that is so, I am out of the running, definitely. My grandfather studied in Elberfeld-Barmen in his youth where in the boarding school he and other students had onions at every meal for three months running. The good man remembered this episode with bitterness against onions to the end of his days. His grandson will entertain and nourish a private grudge against mutton for the rest of his life.

Hygiene.

But to come back to milk. That is all the food the children get till they are 12 years of age, no solids whatever. But girls must be as plump as much as boys. It makes them fat and bloated even. And this, in fact, is the object of the milk diet. For 12 is the marrying age in the Niger and no man wants a thin wife. After 12, rice is added to the milk staple. But no large quantities of rice. Just one half cup a day. However, the rice. One of them, at the restaurants where I had a cup of black coffee the other day, was cooking rice. He was cooking it in a pot, and wiping her hands on her hair. This ought to constitute a considerable saving in towels and dish-rags. Hurrah for economy!

Health and Medicine.

On the other hand the populace is very healthy on the whole. The general sobriety is responsible for this. I have seen no signs of alcoholism, a little illness upsets a Moor. A grown-up man will lament like a baby over a little headache. Against this, we are told, stands the complete inability to pain in battle. Is it that they work themselves into a state of mental exaltation on such occasions that they become insensible to physical suffering? I don't know. It may well be a myth for all I know. For a human is a human and all a human's exaltation speedsily evaporates if he gets a painful wound. The status of native medical science, while we are on the subject of pain, is not very high. A doctor who follows a doctor told me that when the Moors suffer from colic, the native medicine man proceeds to cure them by sitting on the patient's abdomen. Don't try it. Don't waste your time. I did. After that camel-skin, I may add, to make things a little clearer.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

AMBULANT TREATMENT OF HEMORRHOIDS.

It makes a vast amount of difference to a patient, says Dr. Thomas F. McNamara in his book "Essentials of Injection Treatment" (Medical Press, Rochester, N. Y.), whether he has a radical operation, or whether he can be relieved of his trouble by one or two visits to a doctor's office, and go on about his work during the time of treatment, relieved of much of his distress, as is usually the case, as soon as the treatment is first begun. And in another section of the book: The more patients I have treated, the more I have been convinced that there is no excuse for cutting off the natural lining of a patient's hemorrhoids. There is a bunch of varicose veins beneath it.

Physicians who employ the technic Dr. McNamara teaches find that no anesthetic is necessary and the patient has no pain if the method is carefully applied.

This characteristic comment on Dr. McNamara's book appears in the Journal of the American Medical Association. "There are interesting clinical anecdotes illustrating the author's and sagacity in handling patients and the book may help those physicians who want to make use of the method exclusively."

That qualifying word "exclusively" doesn't mean a thing, just the nearest the A. M. A. reviewer dared approach to damning it. As it happens, hundreds of physicians, not specialists, Dr. McNamara in his first book, and Dr. McNamara's technic in the treatment of hemorrhoids and associated conditions with great satisfaction, and exclusively, that is, just in case where there is the most suitable method. The self-seeking politicians who control the American Medical Association hate to recognize or acknowledge ability in any doctor who doesn't come bat in hand pleading for "acceptance."

Even the physician who does not intend to give injection treatment will learn something from this excellent little book. It is an asset to any doctor to know how to diagnose these common and extremely troublesome conditions and what to do when a patient presents himself with such complaints. For instance, some physicians will, if the patient refuses to be dismissed, make an examination of the hemorrhoids to determine if the disease touch whether there are hemorrhoids. That is a mere gesture, where it is a question of internal hemorrhoids, for no doctor can be sure whether or not he feels such hemorrhoids when they are not true with inflammation. Only by visual examination, with the aid of speculum, can the honest physician make a diagnosis. The idea set forth here is Dr. McNamara's: the words are mine. Dr. McNamara has a gentle way of getting the idea across without using any annoying words. That's what baffled the A. M. A. book reviewer. I fancy.

In a large number of cases patients have to make only two visits to the doctor's office—first for treatment, and about three weeks later another visit for check-up.

What a change from the crude old surgical method, which always required at least a week of confinement in hospital, to say nothing of the discomfort of it all.

Huge Lemon Grown.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb.—(UP)—California has nothing on Nebraska when it comes to raising lemons. A 15-year-old lemon tree belonging to Mrs. John Hawbaker, of Nebraska City, recently produced a lemon that weighs over a pound. The 47-inch tree, which sits outside in the summer and in the Hawbaker basement in the winter, was a heritage of the Hawbaker family, and the tree was named after the death of her father.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

BIGNESS WASHINGTON, March 18.—The mourners in big business have been pushed around a lot lately by a series of inside tips that the New Deal may go in for punitive taxes on big business.

A well-known writer who recently visited the White House came away with the impression that the head man is at least toying with the idea. Somewhat the same impression was gained by a prominent New Yorker who called at the White House within the past week.

President Roosevelt's coterie of advisers do not agree about the prospects. The man who is perhaps closest to him on such matters has published a strong editorial endorsing the theory. Others have doubted that the president would care to disturb business further at this time.

PROSPECTS This clearly means that the New Dealers are indirectly sounding out the country on the proposition. It does not necessarily mean that the plan will be undertaken. Once, earlier in the game, Mr. Roosevelt conducted a similar sound-out on the commodity dollar theory and ultimately dropped it. What has been done so far, however, has had a disturbing effect on financial prices. Only a direct or indirect denial from the White House can stop that.

INSPIRATION The only thing new about the idea is the White House angles. The theory has been kicking around, up and down, among the boys in the know since the beginning of the New Deal. A reprinting of Supreme Court Justice Brandeis' book, "The Curse of Bigness," is what started it. Recently a bill to carry it out was introduced in the senate by Wheeler, the progressive, who represents the Brandeis-Frankfurter liberal viewpoint, but not necessarily that of the New Deal.

It is very much of a private matter, but the Wheeler bill actually was prepared by a former secretary to Justice Brandeis. It calls for a graduated tax on large corporations, with a view to taxing bigness out of existence.

A memo from the Brandeis book was the basis of Wheeler's speech introducing the bill.

THEORY The basic theory is that anything big is bad, towns as well as business. Those who advocate it contend everything has been centralized too much in recent years—money, credit, selling, buying, living. They assert they see a prospect that "by 1950, half the national wealth would be under control of large corporations." (Wheeler's speech.) Also, they contend 200 corporations, representing less than 7,000 of 1 per cent of the nation's corporations, practically half of the corporate wealth.

The political aspect behind it now is that it would leave Huey Long holding an empty bag. The economic seriousness behind it is that it involves transplanting almost the entire business life of the country, a process which would require years.

BASIS A bit of inside history which may be significant is that Mr. Roosevelt received a confidential report from the Treasury on a somewhat similar corporation tax bill a year ago. The proposal involved in that report, which has been kept under cover, was three-fold: To tax undistributed profits, unexpended corporation assets and large corporate assets on a graduated scale. The study which developed it was started by the late Treasury Secretary Woodin and continued by Morgenthau.

SELF-INFLATION If the New Deal is going to tax bigness it has become possibly the biggest thing in the line of government in the history of mankind (not excepting Russia). You can get a sharp slant on that by peering into Mr. Jesse Jones' RFC. In his own quiet way, he has been running a 9,000,000,000 bank. His actual disbursements recently amounted to $7,000,000,000, including $2,600,000,000 of repayments. In addition, he has about $2,000,000,000 of loans authorized but not yet paid out. That means he has done a $9,000,000,000 banking business.

But Mr. Jones has been more than the biggest banker in the history of the world. He has done what private bankers were criticized for doing during the circus days of finance. He has put his representatives into boards of directors, purchased stock, become the world's largest interlocking director.

The other day, he took over the Clark utility properties in Chicago (rated as second to Insull a few years ago) to protect a bank loan. Shortly before, he had to assume control of a western railroad. Last year he named the chairman of one of Chicago's big railroads. Recently he put a voting trustee on an eastern railroad board (J. Crawford Biggs on Wheeling and Lake Erie).

As now mildly administered, the RFC undoubtedly does not constitute socialism. But Mr. Jones is certainly the tycoon in the woodpile of whatever Mr. Roosevelt decides to do about big and little business.

CREDIT RATING Incidentally, Mr. Jones has found out from his business that banks are the best pay, and railroads among the poorest. The bankers have paid back $1,200,000,000 out of loans aggregating $1,800,000,000. But Mr. Jones has bought a billion of preferred stocks in banks, which makes his present net investment in banks about $1,600,000,000. The railroads have paid back only $70,000,000 of the $450,000,000 they borrowed.

READING If you are interested in this subject, a good book to read is that by Cyril Upham (treasury aide) and Edwin A. Lamke. It is published by Brookings Institute.

EXPANSION Another indication of the trend toward government bigness is the fact that government personnel is supposed to have increased by nearly 100,000 under the New Deal.

The Coming of the Gravy Train Means Little to One Who Has No Ladle

By Robert Quillen.

A young man named Sheehan had spent many adventurous days in the wilds of Morocco and come out, full of information and cooties, with the manuscript for a book.

Back in New York, he waited in vain for his reward. The city was like an oven, and in all of its sweltering millions there was none he could claim as a friend.

Moreover, he was broke, or nearly so; he had no prospect of a job, and no publisher was humane enough even to affect a polite interest in his manuscript. Life was a sorry mess and heaven was mad at him.

In this extremity, at the very moment when the outlook seemed darkest and heat and loneliness and despair had almost broken his spirit, he met by chance an old friend, like himself a traveler in far places but also an explorer of some renown and authority, and within a few hours all of his troubles had melted magically away.

His manuscript was sold to Asia for a thousand dollars; he had a job as war correspondent for a press service that tactfully advanced money for expenses; and he was gaily on his way to the kind of success he coveted, his soul uplifted by that happiest of combinations, a light heart and a heavy pocket.

In this little story are so many morals and so many hints concerning the secret of success that it seems to answer every question of impertinent ambition. Yet nine people in ten, seeing these morals and hints, will overlook the peg on which they hang.

The first and most obvious hint is that one should know the right people. It always helps.

To be introduced by the prince gives some assurance of a friendly reception by the king. And, other things being equal, a manuscript will be given a more charitable reading if the editor is a brother of the author's. There is magic in the quality called pull.

She Sheehan's influential friend and the fortunate circumstance of a war in the offing and the proverbial luck of the Irish would have availed nothing at all without the right groundwork by Sheehan himself.

For he had endured misery and danger in the Rif; he had written a book worth printing; and he was a worker who knew his job. That is the joker.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

By MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 18.—Prepare for the thrill of a lifetime when you hear Nelson Eddy in "Naughty Marietta."

This baritone, brought to Hollywood almost two years ago with an excellent record from opera and concert stage, has been groomed for pictures more thoroughly than any prospect ever obtained for camera use.

Experiments with make-up and in acting have resulted in a couple of brief glimpses of Eddy in musicals and revues. They were both brief and unsatisfactory.

But the studio found the ideal vehicle for his voice and personality in "Naughty Marietta," in which he appears with Jeannette MacDonald and in which there is recording guaranteed to bring Douglas Shearer an academy prize. Eddy is magnificent both vocally and histrionically. There should be a star in the Hollywood sky when this one is released.

One of our studios has issued notice to its employees not to sign any lease until the tax issue is settled. Which would lead one to believe that the present agitation about a move to Florida is all propaganda, but may have some foundation in fact.

Grave conferences between Louis B. Mayer, spokesman for the industry, and Governor Merriam keep the film colony alive. Gossip filed from lip to lip—murmurs that television and its needs make the move to Florida all the more feasible—but Joseph Schenck seems to be Hollywood's spokesman in Florida, and Mayer is trying to reason with the powers that be out here.

BUS BILL TABLED AFTER FILIBUSTER

were acted on and the way cleared for Governor Talmadge's speech at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, an address along the same lines as the one under which the new state prison farm is being built in Tattall county.

A companion bill creating a state agency with power to receive and distribute federal money remains on the house calendar and may be called up at any time. Both bills were introduced by a group from the general assembly, the one under which the new state prison farm is being built in Tattall county.

Beer Referendum Passed. By vote of 7 to 6, the senate committee on temperance adopted a referendum amendment to the beer legalization bill passed by the house and then voted to report favorably "About the beer." The referendum has been suggested by Governor Talmadge.

The committee also voted to report favorably on the Cobb wine bill, which permits the manufacture of tax-free Georgia products. Before the wine can be sold in any county in the state, that county must approve the measure by a majority vote. The county elections are to be called upon petition of 15 per cent of the voters.

Fearful Talmadge Veto. The referendum was added to the beer bill when members of the committee said they felt that if there was no vote provided for the governor would veto the measure. The referendum was held in conjunction with the repeal referendum May 15 if Governor Talmadge approves that proposal.

Senator David Atkinson, of Savannah, and Senator Joe Johnston, of Woodstock, urged that a committee be named to discuss with the governor his suggestion for a referendum but the referendum was attached, nevertheless, Senator G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta said he felt that there should not be a referendum unless the governor demanded it.

In approving the measure the committee fixed the state tax at $1.25 a barrel instead of the $2.50 per barrel tax fixed by the house.

The senate also struck out the Rivers' amendment to the house bill which diverted the funds accruing from the beer tax to the common school fund and provided that it go directly to the schools for general educational purposes.

Important Action Taken. With both houses holding adjourned sessions, planning to continue them throughout the week the following important actions were taken during the Monday sessions:

The house defeated the Claxton bill to legalize horse racing in Georgia. The measure got a 76 to 78 vote but it takes 103 votes, a constitutional majority, to obtain passage.

The house approved a bill by Representative Bond Almond, of Fulton county, to allow hospitals to set up group hospitalization associations at a maximum cost of $1 per month to members of the associations. The vote was 104 to 8.

The senate committee on appropriations reported favorably the Talmadge-sponsored bill for a special appropriation of $1,000,000 to the regents of the university system for improvement of the system. This bill already has been passed by the house.

Recovery Bill Passed. The house approved by a vote of 109 to 2 a bill to permit county and municipal governments to pledge assets to obtain federal loans under the Roosevelt recovery program.

The lower branch of the assembly also voted approval of a measure allowing owners of homes or farms applying for loans or refinancing three years to clear up clouded titles.

The senate approved a bill by Representative Jones, of Lumpkin county, abolishing the office of mayor of Dalton and setting up a city manager form of government after attaching an amendment providing for a referendum. Opponents to the bill with "spite work" on the part of Jones.

The senate passed a resolution sponsored by Representatives Ramsey, of Fulton county, and Sutton, of Wilkes county, calling on Attorney-General Yeomans for a ruling on Governor Talmadge's alleged holding up of funds for the school teachers and bus drivers. The resolution asks the attorney-general to give his report today.

In addition scores of local bills and general bills of local application were passed during the day despite the fact that the senate adjourned during the afternoon because a committee sent to the funeral of Mrs. E. L. Reagan McDonald was so large that it did not leave a quorum present. Senate President Charles D. Redwine, a relative by marriage of Representative and Mrs. Reagan, also attended the funeral.

Filibuster Threatened. The Claxton bill was defeated after its opponents had threatened to filibuster against it. The measure was passed by a 76 to 78 vote but it takes 103 votes, a constitutional majority, to obtain passage.

Sponsors of the bill said the 3 per cent taken from pari-mutuel machines would net the state $2,000,000 a year and provided in their bill that the proceeds from the measure should go to the department of health to provide hospital and medical care for the poor of the state.

In speaking against the bill, a companion measure to one pending in the senate under the sponsorship of the senator representing his county, Senator Homer Edgfield, of Kingsland; Representative Welch, of Charlton county, charged that Edgfield was holding up a number of Charlton county local bills in the senate because he, Welch, opposed the racing bill.

He also charged that lobbyists for the bill had "driven me out of my

Do You Want to Leave... "WHOLE" DOLLARS WHEN YOU DIE?

THAT may sound like a foolish question, but it is not foolish. Too few men really understand what their estates may face when they die.

Expenses of administration are immediate cash demands. Debts, income taxes, inheritance taxes, transfer fees—these and other obligations must be paid—now—in cash. If the actual cash is not available, other assets must be sold at once, regardless of conditions, to provide that cash.

The real solution to this problem is an INSURANCE TRUST.

This trust can be created by taking out one or more policies for that specific purpose. You can make this insurance payable to the bank as trustee and you can instruct the Trust Officers to use it to meet various charges against your estate.

There is no smarter action on the part of forward looking men than the buying of Life Insurance for this practical purpose. Your trustees can then proceed with orderly administration of your estate—without sacrifice.

Discussing your estate with our Trust Officers can mean much to your family when you are gone.

company stated he did not believe they could pay more than 30 cents on the dollar, if that much.

It was also charged Monday that part, at least, of securities posted with the corporation as collateral had been sold without knowledge or consent of the owners. It is known that many investors had left securities with the corporation in this manner and it is possible that the bulk if not all of these securities have likewise been sold.

Sale of such collateral is a criminal offense.

Mrs. Beattie Anderson, secretary to former Governor Clifford Walker when he was attorney-general of Georgia and later in the governor's office, filed a petition in federal court Monday asking that the corporation be adjudged bankrupt.

Charges $2,000 Embezzlement.

She charges direct embezzlement of $2,000 through the sale of securities left with the American Bond & Share Corporation as collateral for a loan of $1,350. Five shares of the First National Bank of Atlanta and 30 shares of the Citizens & Southern National Bank, belonging to Mrs. Anderson, have been sold without her knowledge or consent, the petition sets forth.

It further shows that Mrs. Anderson tendered full payment of the loan of $1,350 to John C. Ingram, secretary-treasurer of the corporation, and that he failed and refused to deliver her collateral.

Robert Lee, who has been appearing as counsel for the corporation in hearings in federal court before Judge E. Marvin Underwood, did not represent them when a new hearing was launched in the same court Monday.

Phil C. McDuffie, Atlanta lawyer, acted as counsel in the hearing.

The new hearing was an effort to quash subpoenas calling for appearance of the corporation, its affiliates and officers, with all records before the federal grand jury.

Complete domination of the corporation by R. R. Bradley, its president, and Robert Lee is alleged "on information and belief." In an affidavit filed in federal court Monday by Robert E. Kline Jr., attorney for the Exchange and Securities Commission on the United States, the affidavit was filed in connection with the original hearing in which the corporation is resisting subpoenas issued by the Federal Securities Commission in an investigation into its affairs ordered by that body.

The affidavit states that Bradley, in sales talks by representatives of the company, has been represented as a member of the famous Kentucky family of the same name and that advertising matter and letters of the corporation sent through the mails made misleading references to connections with a reputable New York bank and trust company, which the corporation did not actually employ.

Sales letters and advertising material are attached as exhibits, as well as the "service agreement" contract the corporation sold.

Investors' Fund Commingled.

It is stated that Robert Lee, counsel for the corporation, admitted believing that the corporation had commingled the funds of various investors were commingled and it is set forth that in the corporation's income tax returns for 1933 its business is described as "syndicate manager."

Statements of a contract holder and employee that all investors were paid the same rate of interest are cited and it is contended that segregation of individual trading accounts is not possible because of the loss in trading advantage and the added odd-lot commissions which would have to be paid brokerage houses.

It is further charged that the American Bond & Share Corporation, an affiliate of the parent corporation, bought debenture bonds of American Participations, Inc., another affiliate, with money of its investors constituting a "loading" of securities of unproved value and a breach of the trust relationship.

Records Not Available.

Receivers who took over the offices of the corporation Monday did not find records available, though it is believed they may be in steel files and safes found in the offices. A court order to open these receptacles will be obtained.

Otherwise the elaborate offices contained nothing save the expensive furnishings, carpets and equipment which has made it one of the most luxurious furnished business establishments in the south.

Expensive pictures, thick pile rugs and costly desks, chairs and other furnishings are typical of the offices, which occupy the entire eleventh floor of the William-Oliver building.

Quinby Widow Defends His Record

for the securities commission that funds of various investors were commingled and it is set forth that in the corporation's income tax returns for 1933 its business is described as "syndicate manager."

Statements of a contract holder and employee that all investors were paid the same rate of interest are cited and it is contended that segregation of individual trading accounts is not possible because of the loss in trading advantage and the added odd-lot commissions which would have to be paid brokerage houses.

It is further charged that the American Bond & Share Corporation, an affiliate of the parent corporation, bought debenture bonds of American Participations, Inc., another affiliate, with money of its investors constituting a "loading" of securities of unproved value and a breach of the trust relationship.

Records Not Available.

Receivers who took over the offices of the corporation Monday did not find records available, though it is believed they may be in steel files and safes found in the offices. A court order to open these receptacles will be obtained.

FERA BEARS DOWN ON STATE SOLONS

Demands for Bigger Share of Relief Costs Put Up to Legislatures.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP)—Federal Emergency Relief officials are bearing down on state legislatures to put up a bigger share of the relief costs which in two years have cost the federal, state and local governments $2,272,102,631.

One argument they use is that in addition to taking part of the load off the Uncle Sam, the money would result in more adequate relief benefits. They said average monthly payments would be stepped up.

Also, the federal government might save $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 a month or about $200,000,000 a year. Already the states, responding to the pressure from Washington, have increased their monthly contributions from a total of $30,000,000 monthly to $50,000,000.

In December, 1934, the average monthly benefits to families on relief rolls was $28.37. Swinging into the severe winter months, FERA officials on January 15 sent a call to 18 states to shoulder more of the burden.

This action was based on a study begun last July to determine whether states could chip in more money. There were arguments over FERA's right to ask, say, $4,000,000 more a month from them when only $1,000,000 was requested from some other states.

Disputes Quickly Cleared.

However, officials said, these disagreements were in many cases quickly cleared up through conferences and the states provided for increased state expenditures with some exceptions.

In 1933 the federal government spent $480,001,783 for relief purposes—60.6 per cent of the total paid out by federal, state and local governments. This was increased to $1,069,333,772 in 1934 or 72.3 per cent.

Through the $180,000,000 work relief measure, President Roosevelt hopes to revamp the entire relief system. His plans as officially outlined are to take 3,500,000 able-bodied men and women off the present relief system and put them on works projects. The "unemployables"—the physically and mentally unfit, widows, etc.—would be returned to the care of the states.

Fight Delays Plans.

The administration had indicated a hope that this work program would start July 1, but the senate fight over the bill has delayed matters and it may be long after July 1 before machinery is in full motion.

The original 18 states asked to put up more money were Arkansas, Washington, Wyoming, Mississippi, Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Oregon and Utah. Later a similar request was made of Ohio.

The increases asked ranged from $250,000 monthly in the case of some of the smaller states to $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 for some of the more prosperous industrial ones. FERA officials declined to specify the sums demanded from each.

Some of these states, officials said, contributed nothing in 1933 and the first nine months of 1934, leaving the task entirely up to local governmental units. Among these were listed Alabama, Florida, Nebraska and Nevada.

In the case of Alabama, for instance, the federal government granted $222,500,000 in the 21 months while local funds were said to be limited to only $949,000.

During the same period Minnesota put up $957,000 while the federal government contributed $22,479,000 and local units $6,006,000. On the other hand, New Jersey contributed $20,396,000, the federal government $32,382,000 and local units $5,415,000.

Stage Settings, Dancing
Mark Burlesque Show

With the most beautiful stage sets and dancing routines the theater has ever offered to date, and the return of Frances Mylie and Boots Burns, favorite strippers of several months ago, the burlesque bill at the Atlanta this week proves to be highly entertaining.

The mirror number, an oriental song and dance number, and the "Radio Dicks" set, are especially beautiful as well as tawdry. Denny Sullivan and Joe Kilch do some fancy singing and snappy straight work while Jacques Wilson sings Buttons Fare and Claude Mathis in the comic bits which all drew laughs Monday. Tamara is as bewitching as ever, while Violet Dixon pleases in her strips also.

Southeast Restaurant Men Open Convention Here Today

Large Delegations From Many States Coming to Important Meeting at City Auditorium.

By J. B. HOGSED.

The first annual Southeastern Restaurant Association convention and exposition will open at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the city auditorium under the auspices of the Georgia Restaurant Association.

Co-operating in the endeavor are local and state restaurant associations from the District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. The National Restaurant Association is likewise taking an active interest in the convention.

Speakers of national reputation are scheduled to appear on the convention programs. Among them are Charles A. Laube, of Buffalo, N. Y., president of the national association; Frank O. Sherrill, of Charlotte, first vice president; J. O. Mills, of Columbus, Ohio, past president; H. L. Gardner, of George R. Savage, of New York, members of the National Restaurant Code Authority; A. B. Carver, of Chicago; W. C. Dunton, of Dallas, Texas; G. C. Outlaw, of Mobile, Ala.; J. L. Linberger, of Shelby, and W. L. McGinley, of Dallas, members of the National Code Authority, and Major A. T. Fletcher, executive secretary of the code authority, whose headquarters are in Washington.

Others prominent in restaurant circles scheduled to speak are F. O. Washam, bureau director of the Chicago High Schools Lunch Rooms; A. C. Meehling, vice president of the White Castle System, Columbus, Ohio; J. D. Dahl, editorial director of restaurant management, New York; C. A. Patterson, editor of the American Restaurant Magazine, Chicago; J. B. Sullivan, hotel and restaurant commissioner of Florida; Harry Thomson, executive secretary of the Southern Hotel Association, Greensboro, N. C.; Charles Creighton, of Creighton's of Asheville and Chattanooga; David McKoon, secretary of the Louisville Restaurant Association; Miss Margaret B. Dana, of the Broadway cafeteria, Louisville; Mrs. J. M. Bond, Round Table dining room, Miami; Charles H. Oakley, executive secretary of the Blue Grass Restaurant Association, of Lexington, Ky.

Still others on the program include

J. M. Welch, of the Edison General Electric Appliance Company, Chicago; C. W. Seely, National Cash Register Company, Dayton, Ohio; Frank J. Wilfong, secretary of the National Restaurant Association, Chicago, and Robert J. Wilson, southeastern district manager of the national association.

With the leading manufacturers and distributors of today's scientifically created restaurant equipment and labor-saving devices displaying their products at the show, the exposition is expected to be the greatest ever staged in the southeast.

Thursday afternoon has been set aside for code discussion. Assistant Deputy Administrator Boyd Gerhardt, of Washington, and Regional Compliance Director W. L. Mitchell, of Atlanta, will participate. It was pointed out that if the restaurant industry is to be compelled to continue operating under a code, drastic modifications will be necessary.

Linen Supply Plans Unique SRA Display

The exhibit of the Atlanta Linen Supply Company at the Southeastern Restaurant Convention and Exposition to be held in the city auditorium, beginning today, will prove of utmost interest to progressive restaurant and hotel men. The display will show in a unique way the value of immaculate linens and uniforms in promoting new trade.

The Atlanta Linen Supply Company has operated successfully in Atlanta for years, supplying linens and uniforms to leading businesses on a rental basis, thus eliminating large overhead for them on these items.

American Linen Co. Plans Show Booth

The American Linen Supply Company will have an attractive exhibit in the city auditorium, during the Southeastern Restaurant Convention and Exposition, which formally opens today, according to Eugene M. Mitchell, president of the local firm.

A rental linen service, which supplies progressive restaurants and other retail establishments with uniforms, linens, etc., is the service rendered by this concern.

Beer Exhibit Planned For Restaurant Men

The Atlanta Beverage and Bottle Company and the Russ Soda Fountain Company will occupy the same booths at the Southeastern Restaurant Convention and Exposition to open at the city auditorium today. An interesting feature of the exhibit will be the Pabst Blue Ribbon beer demonstration with the Russ G. E. balanced pressure dispensing system.

Both the above companies are known for the dependability and quality of their products, having served the restaurant trade for a number of years. Their progressive policies have placed them well in the foreground in the restaurant and soda fountain fields, where they are both widely and favorably known.

Roaches, Rats Hurt Restaurant Trade

Roaches, rats, insects and other vermin have no place in the restaurant business, according to the Orkin Company, leading exterminators of the south, operating in practically every important southern city.

For many years this organization has rendered satisfactory extermination service to leading hotels and restaurants where the management demands absolute cleanliness.

It is estimated by Orkin that they save thousands of dollars per annum for their clients in ridding their premises of property-destroying, business-killing rats and insects.

Weather Machine Features SRA Show

The very latest type of air conditioning equipment for restaurant and stores is one of the most interesting exhibits at the show of the Southeastern Restaurant Association. Clare & Company have the most modern carrier weathermaker and compressor on display in their booth.

This equipment is in actual operation, showing just how weather is manufactured. The company also has on display the most modern cooling unit for refrigerated boxes. Connected with this unit is a piece of equipment called an evaporative condenser. It does away with cooling water or cooling tower and cuts the cost of operating and refrigerating unit to just a fraction of the cost of the old style of installation.

Air conditioning is essential to the success of any restaurant now as people are demanding comfort while they eat so increased business follows upon the installation of a modern carrier air conditioning system.

Progressive Restaurateurs Know This Name

Wise restaurant men won't tolerate repulsive insect-and-vermin-infested premises. They know it kills business; creates bad will. They call Orkin regularly to exterminate.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy Is Made At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small oz. of henna compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. Henna imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair making it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off—lasts!

British Censor Strikes Mdivanis From Scene in Musical Comedy

LONDON, March 18.—(UP)—Climaxing the mountainous publicity occasioned by Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani's announcement she will divorce her husband, the names of both of them were removed today from a comedy scene of the review, "Stop Press," on request of the official censor of the British stage.

The lord chamberlain in official capacity as censor, issued a summons upon Clifford Whitley, producer of the show.

Princess Barbara, who was in a bad temper over the disclosure yesterday that she plans to cut off Prince Alexis without a penny when she gets her Reno divorce, said she had received "many letters from friends urging her to protest" against the show.

Whitley and his associates, however, insisted that she had not taken any action on the show and that the summons was issued independently of her.

It was understood the lord chamberlain's action involved a different kick from the bedroom scene in the revue, which had also been changed.

Whitley expects he will have to appear at Bow street police station on the summons, but since he has now made alterations in the show he is not "worried over any possibility of going on a prison diet."

Nurses' Anger.
 Beginning tonight the stage skit will be entitled merely "Famous American Heiress Meets Foreign Prince," and the characters will not have the names of the Prince and Princess Mdivani.

Dorothy Dickson, the American actress who played the part of Princess Mdivani, will still be "smothered in jewelry" as described by the show directors, and will still sing "The Nickels and Dimes I've Got Bought Me An Awful Lot" and "Beny Meeny Miny Mo, Catch a Prince by the Toe."

The revue was a success in New York under the name "As Thousands Cheer."

Barbara nursed her anger all day long at the disclosure about her not giving the prince any money when they are parted. The bright sunshine and springlike atmosphere of Hyde Park, which lay below her hotel window, failed to entice her outdoors.

"We are both very angry about the story she is cutting the prince off without a cent," said slender Jimmy Donohue, her cousin, although admitting that she herself authorized the statement that the prince would not get any "compensation."

May Throw Party.
 "We never wanted the story written that way," he said, his face flushing angrily as he left the hotel in the late afternoon. He himself had previously confirmed the information that the latest of the "marring Mdivanis" to gain his freedom would not get any of the Woolworth money.

Canadian Trade Pact Hearings Are Opened

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(UP)—Hearings on a proposed reciprocal trade agreement with Canada opened today with American lumber interests united in a plea that this government seek abandonment of discrimination against American lumber in markets of the British empire.

The recommendations submitted by Wilson Compton and Clarence C. Dill in behalf of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association included: "That the government of the United States seek the co-operation of the government of the Dominion of Canada in securing promptly the abandonment, in the lumber markets of the British Empire, of discriminations in favor of Canadian lumber, in tariffs, quotas, or in other forms; so that lumber exported from the United States and lumber exported from Canada into the world markets may compete on equal terms and without discrimination."

Queen and her cousin had both praised the prince highly and described him as "very sweet about it all" and "the sweetest person in the world."

Donohue, who was out merrymaking last night until the early hours, while the princess retired early, wasn't up and dressed until nearly 4 o'clock this afternoon. He immediately left the hotel for an unrevealed destination.

As he stepped into a cab he disclosed that he will accompany Princess Mdivani when she sails for New York Saturday.

He refused to discuss published reports in London that the slim princess is going to throw at least one or two of her famous parties before her departure.

Statler Heiress' Will Attacked in Court

CARTHAGE, N. C., March 18.—(UP)—A caveat in the purported will of Mrs. Elva Statler Davidson was filed in superior court late today by J. M. Broughton, Raleigh attorney representing the Statler family.

The caveat attacked the will which left the bulk of the heiress' $500,000 personal estate to her husband, H. Bradley Davidson Jr., on the general grounds that it was not her valid last will and testament. A bill of particulars may be filed later, it demanded.

The next term of Moore county superior court convenes May 13 and that is the earliest the case could be brought to trial.

The effect of the caveat is to suspend all proceedings under the will until the issue raised is determined.

MA GRAW'S ARE FREED OF GAMBLING CHARGES

MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—(UP)—The county solicitor today cancelled a grand jury charge that Lucy Cotton Thomas McGraw, former actress, operated a gambling house this winter in the oceanfront Deauville Night Club.

Sharing with the glamorous Broadway figure in County Solicitor Fred Pine's dismissal of the charges were her husband, William McGraw, and two others indicted in January with them, Sam Finklestein and Frank Zaccarino.

A third codefendant, Harry Werner, came before Criminal Court Judge Ben C. Willard with a nolle prosequere pleading and was fined $500 and costs, with an alternative prison sentence of one year. The fine was promptly paid.

TRAFFIC REFORMS ASKED BY MARSH

Reduction of Atlanta's traffic death toll from one-third to one-half through enactment of reasonable traffic regulations, rigidly enforced, and a system Monday afternoon by Mayor W. W. Marsh, assistant director of FERA traffic surveys.

Marsh was given the privilege of the floor to address the council on traffic problems at the insistence of Councilman Howard Haire, ninth ward, and a member of the police committee of council, which is in charge of traffic law enforcement here.

"If the major recommendations of the FERA traffic survey are adopted after being worked over, with modifications which you gentlemen may see fit to impose, there will be a reduction of from one-third to one-half in the death toll in Atlanta," Marsh told council.

"In Providence, R. I., a city of about the size of Atlanta, the death toll from traffic has been reduced to about one-third of the present rate."

"It is being done in other cities. Atlanta's record along this line is not so good. We are not coming here with a lot of curbs and a maze of untied and new schemes. We are bringing to you the latest developments in traffic control."

Children's Death Reduced.

"Since 1927, deaths among school children have been reduced about 25 per cent, due to education, but adult deaths have increased in about the same ratio. Commercial fleets have reduced accidents among their employees. Taxicab accidents have been cut about 40 per cent, and operators of bus lines have cut theirs about 25 per cent."

"During that time, deaths from private car operations, however, have jumped about 50 per cent. Twenty-six states have enacted drivers' license laws since 1926, and the District of Columbia also has been added. Death tolls from traffic accidents have been reduced 25 per cent in states where drivers' licenses are issued, but in states where it is not in force, accidents resulting in death have increased about 14 per cent."

"There should be an intelligent codification of local traffic laws. I am told that such a thing would be impossible at present."

"Cities of America spend three times as much on maintenance of fire departments as they do in controlling traffic, and yet the death rate from traffic is more than twice as much as it is from fires. I am not criticizing fire departments, but merely trying to show how far behind we are in the matter of traffic."

Through Streets Needed.

"Atlanta should establish a system of through streets, protected by a standardized system of signs. This will expedite the movement of traffic. Special consideration should be given for the protection of pedestrians. If that is done, we can cut down the loss in that field. At the present time about half the fatal traffic accidents in Atlanta involve pedestrians."

Marsh said after his council address that 95 per cent of those who answered a questionnaire sent out by FERA surveys favored a drivers' license law. He added that 96 per cent favored strict enforcement of traffic laws.

"The survey here has been about completed, and when it is revised, it will compare favorably to hundreds made by other cities at great cost," Marsh asserted.

"A total of 95 per cent of the persons who answered the questionnaire also favored institution of a system of education regarding traffic matters in high schools. Automobile insurance has doubled in Atlanta within the last few years, but if a marked reduction in casualties could be recorded and property losses reduced, they would be cut."

The council Monday afternoon approved an ordinance permitting one-hour parking on the Forsyth, Broad and Pryor street viaducts and the Central avenue viaduct.

FERA provided about $40,000 for conducting the survey in Atlanta and the city provided only a nominal amount.

Marsh was given an ovation as he concluded his remarks in council, indicating that his attitude was received with sympathy.

Mercury Will Drop Again This Morning

Cloudy skies, probable light rains and average temperatures comprise the weather menu for Atlanta today, according to George W. Minding, weather observer here.

The day will be cloudy and the mercury will range from a low of 38 early to a high of around 56 degrees in the afternoon. The temperature Monday climbed to 57 degrees after hitting a low of 38 shortly before daybreak.

DRINK VIGOR INTO YOUR BODY

Feel the exhilarating effect from the start

In many cases, an under-developed figure, sunken cheeks and listless actions are usually the result of a weak, nervous system. Usually, there's a gas after meals, heartburn and acid indigestion. That's because excessive acidity in the stomach hinders the gastric fluids. Then food can't digest. Instead of nourishment, your body gets what comes from the fermenting mass. That can't do you any good.

Ask your druggist for a three ounce package of Placidin. Drink some water with a teaspoonful of Placidin in it several times during the day. Especially before going to sleep. That wipes out the excessive acidity in your stomach. It doesn't get into your intestines to constipate you and starve your blood, nerves and tissue. The gastric fluids are there instead, and the food you eat gives you the flesh you need to round out your figure, the color of health you want to look attractive and the energy to be your gay charming self.

You have never seen anything like this before. Placidin will do what you have been expecting from the many things you have been taking because it wipes out the cause. . . . Excessive acidity. Placidin is not laxative. Contains no sugar.—(adv.)

Canon and Mrs. Turner Entertain Former First Lady of the Land

By Sally Forth.

RARELY is Sally permitted to break to you such thrilling news as the arrival in your midst of a former First Lady of the Land. And to make it more exciting, she is that most gracious of all former First Ladies, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who is being entertained as the guest of Canon and Mrs. William S. Turner at their home on Rumson road in Garden Hills. Mrs. Coolidge arrived yesterday by motor from Tryon, N. C., with Sally Turner's mother, Mrs. William F. Pearson, of Washington, D. C., and her aunt, Mrs. Florence Bannard Adams, of Northampton, Mass. The trio were dinner guests of the Turners last night, and what good news it is that Mrs. Pearson will remain for a real visit with them, even if the others must forego that pleasure!

The visit was rather impromptu, for it was only yesterday that Sally and Bill received the wire from Mrs. Pearson, saying they were on the way. Mrs. Coolidge, who is a lifelong friend of Mrs. Adams, has been her guest since Christmas at Slick Rock, the handsome Tryon estate inherited by Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Pearson and the latter's sister, Mrs. Lucy Wadhams Dodge, of Pittsfield, Mass., at the death of their uncle, the late Otto Bannard. Mr. Bannard, you remember, was the financier and world traveler who proved such a friend to his Alma Mater, Yale University, and was given the honor of burial on that hallowed spot adjoining the Yale campus, a privilege accorded to a special few.

Mrs. Pearson joined Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Coolidge at Slick Rock last week. When she announced her intention of coming to Atlanta, they decided to motor down with her, but Sally and Bill could not persuade them to remain for a longer stay. They will return to North Carolina today. Entertaining a former First Lady would doubtless bring stagefright to many a more experienced hostess. But not to Sally Turner, who, by the way, has enjoyed the experience of housekeeping less than a year. Selecting her handsomest alabaster urn, she filled it with giant Empress jonquils and lighted tall white tapers in matching holders to grace her exquisitely appointed dinner table. Certainly it is doubtful if any First Lady ever had more charming and cordial hosts than Bill and Sally Turner.

AND speaking of first ladies, Georgia's first lady, Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, will give the wives and daughters of the legislators a tea next Thursday. The auspicious event takes place at the executive mansion on The Prado in Ansley Park, and the reception rooms will be thronged with the flower of the feminine element of the state.

Assisting Mrs. Talmadge will be Mrs. Horace Clarke, of Atlanta; Mrs. Hilton Tyus, of Carrollton, sisters of Governor Talmadge; and Mrs. William Mann, of McRae, the guest of Mrs. Talmadge. Added to this list will be the names of Mrs. Charles Smyly, of Eastman, and Miss Margaret Talmadge, daughters of the gracious hostess.

WHEN is a mushroom not a mushroom? When it's a potato, so says one young bride. In case you are wondering why Sally is in such a silly mood, the above question is quite apropos regarding a young bride of two weeks.

A next-door apartment neighbor in a gesture of hospitality to the newlyweds, sent them some mushrooms. It so happened that the gift arrived on the one day that the new cook had failed to appear. How the young bride prepared her gift is unknown. She is a novice in culinary art in the truest sense of the word. However, when she rang the bell at the apartment of the donor of the mushrooms to extend an appreciative "Thank you," the bride said: "Thank you so much for the potatoes. It was so thoughtful of you to send them to my husband and me."

WHEN lovely Miriam Fleming, known as "Mimi" to her intimate friends, becomes the bride of handsome Frank Player next June, she will wear the exquisite wedding veil of Mrs. Gus Loyless, the former Helen Bivings. Fashioned of fragile Venetian lace, the veil was bought by Helen in Europe and laid carefully away until the day its owner would trend the orange blossom trail.

tend the wedding of Helen and Gus a few weeks ago will recall the exotic beauty of the bride, enhanced by the veil attached to her dark wavy hair by a coronet of rose point lace. Incidentally, Sally recalls that Mimi's adored sister, Ann Wynn Fleming, served as one of Helen's bridesmaids on that important occasion. There is no doubt but that the friendship existing between Helen and Mimi will be more deeply cemented in the years to come by the sentimental fact that the same veil was worn by both brides on the most eventful day of their young lives.

WONDERED WHAT IT WAS LIKE

"I used to wonder, but now I know what Midol tablets do for the woman who has a difficult time and really suffers with periodical pain. I am grateful beyond expression, simply because I get such relief from Midol that I don't even have to favor myself on those days."

Many could give Midol just this endorsement! It acts fast, is effective for several hours, but it's not a narcotic. It is a special medicine, for this special purpose, and specialists can tell you how well it works! You'll usually find it displayed on the druggist's counter—or just ask the clerk for Midol.

TIED, WORN OUT, NO AMBITION

How many are just dragging themselves around, all tired out with periodical weakness and pain? They should know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets relieve periodical pains and discomfort. Small size only 25 cents.

To Help Nature Shed a Bad Complexion

Beauty devotees are enthusiastic over the beautifying qualities of Mercolized Wax. The principal reason for its wonderful results is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding complexion defects, it removes them—gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience. It is Nature's way of renewing the complexion. When the natural process is retarded because of deficient circulation or nerve tone, Mercolized Wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a natural one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. Try Mercolized Wax tonight. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. Powdered Bazille reduces wrinkles and other age lines. Simply dissolve one ounce Mercolized in one-half pint witch hazel, and use daily as a skin retreating lotion. At all drug stores. (adv.)

NEW YORK, March 18.—(P)—

Developments in the European armaments and monetary situation gave the foreign section of the bond market a heavy appearance today but other decisions held up well in the declining stock and commodity markets.

United States Government bonds from 2-32 to 4-1 of a point, but the turnover was small and reflected no distress selling. Domestic corporate issues were in a narrow secondary railroad and industrial issues which lost around a point, prices were fairly steady.

Transamerica negotiated $9,571,000, par value, against $10,924,000 last Friday and the Associated Press averages were 2 of a point higher to 2 of a point lower.

Four issues of Belgian bonds declined from 2-18 to 5-38 points in a heavy turnover following announcement that the Belgian government had placed under government control in foreign exchanges as the outgrowth of the Franco-Belgian conference.

There were a number of soft spots in domestic corporate issues, including obligations of the Southern Pacific, New Haven, Big Four, Purdy Bakeries and Baltimore and Ohio, of which were 1 to 2 points lower, but the vast majority showed only fractional change and there were quite a number in the plus column.

Columbia Gas Co. 2-12 was 1-2 higher and Federal Light & Traction 5-10 gained a full point at 86 1/2.

Other creeping minor changes included obligations of Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Western Union, Maryland and Liggett & Myers.

The government list was featureless with a turnover of only $2,500,000.
